

Despite their diversity, the European states share a common history.

This course is a study of the political and institutional identity of European countries throughout history and relationships between them : domination and balance, division and union.