

In France, the end of absolute monarchy is the beginning of a turbulent period, characterized by the search for a new political model. This course aims at studying the various regime that have occurred from 1789 to the early nineteenth century.