

Collective Labour Relations focuses on three elements: 1) actors in collective labor relations within and outside the company : unions (constitution, representation, union actions), representative bodies (elected / appointed representatives; prerogatives; protective status), 2) collective bargaining (process and object of bargaining validity and effect of agreements and collective labor agreements), 3) labor disputes, including the right to strike. This teaching completes the course of individual Labour Relations.